

Brandon Middleton

Clean Water Act Counsel

U.S. Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works

Washington, DC

Brandon Middleton joined the Republican staff of the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works in April 2013 and serves as the Committee's Clean Water Act counsel. He graduated from the Ohio State University Moritz College of Law in 2007 and began his legal career at Pacific Legal Foundation in Sacramento. As a staff attorney at PLF, Mr. Middleton litigated numerous cases involving the Clean Water Act, Endangered Species Act, and National Environmental Policy Act. Prior to joining EPW, he was an associate attorney with Harrison Temblador Hungerford & Johnson in Sacramento, where he represented landowners, public entities, and private companies in environmental litigation.
