

Robert Perciasepe

Acting Administrator

Office of Water

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

Washington, DC

With his return to U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Bob Perciasepe brings to the Agency a diversity of experience in environmental stewardship, advocacy, and organizational management. In his previous position as Chief Operating Officer at the National Audubon Society, he coordinated national and state programs for one of the country's leading environmental organizations. During the Clinton Administration, he served at EPA as the Assistant Administrator for Water and, subsequently, Air and Radiation. Prior to that, he held the posts of Secretary of Environment for the State of Maryland and Assistant Director of Planning for the City of Baltimore. With his management experience at the federal, state, and municipal levels, both inside and outside government, he provides a broad operational understanding that helps EPA carry out its mission effectively and efficiently.

Mr. Perciasepe holds a BS in Natural Resources from Cornell University and a Master of Planning and Public Administration from the Maxwell School of Syracuse University.
