

Janet Gillaspie

Executive Director

Oregon Association of Clean Water Agencies

Portland, OR

Janet Gillaspie has served as the Executive Director of the Oregon Association of Clean Water Agencies (ORACWA) since 1995. ORACWA is a private, not-for-profit trade association of Oregon's wastewater treatment and stormwater management organizations and associated professionals focused on protecting and enhancing Oregon's water quality for over 25 years. As ORACWA's Executive Director, she organized and facilitated the Oregon Drug Take Back Stakeholder Group in 2007.

Ms. Gillaspie brings over 30 years of experience in solving environmental problems in Ore. Well-rounded in all areas of environmental regulations, she has detailed experience in federal and state air and water quality regulations, solid and hazardous waste management requirements, and their application in the field.

A consultant for the past 20 years, Ms. Gillaspie also spent nearly 10 years with the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ). While at DEQ she managed DEQ's Public Affairs program, and its Northwest Region.

She holds a BS in Biology from the University of Oregon.
