

Lauren J. Kalisek
Principal Attorney
Lloyd Gosselink Rochelle & Townsend
Austin, TX

Lauren Kalisek is a principal attorney with the firm of Lloyd Gosselink Rochelle & Townsend in Austin, Texas and has been practicing in the areas of Texas water quality and water utilities law for over 15 years. She specializes in providing counsel to cities, river authorities, water districts and other local governmental organizations on water quality regulatory matters.

Ms. Kalisek is an active member of the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality Stakeholder Group on Texas Surface Water Quality Standards and the Texas Water Conservation Association Water Quality Subcommittee, and supports these groups' efforts in shaping Texas' water quality regulatory policy. She is co-author of the West Texas Practice Series Environmental Law Chapter on Water Quality and is an associate editor of the Texas Environmental Law Journal. She has served as a speaker on the topic of water quality and Texas' regulation of water utilities at various conferences, including the National Association of Clean Water Agencies, the International CLE Texas Water Law Conference, the Texas Association of Water Board Directors, the Texas Rural Water Association, the Texas Water Conservation Association, and the Texas Environmental Super-conference.

Ms. Kalisek is a native of Houston, Texas and earned her BA with honors from The University of Texas at Austin and her JD from the University of Texas School of Law.